

Conservative Businessman J.D. Wilson Officially Announces for U.S. Senate

Becomes the conservative frontrunner for GOP nomination in the Michigan open seat race with a platform to stop Joe Biden's inflation and out of control spending "Dead in its tracks," crack down on crime and illegal immigration, and stand up to China economically while re-shoring jobs to Michigan.

(Houghton Lake Heights, MI)- Michigan businessman J.D. Wilson has announced his candidacy for United States Senate in Michigan through a video announcement released by his campaign today. It emphasizes his strong constitutional positions to safeguard our freedoms while also focusing on the need for a counterbalance to the failed Biden / Harris economic agenda of out of control inflation and reckless government spending, by vowing to stop their agenda "Dead in its tracks" in the Senate.

"Michigan's families and small businesses don't deserve the punishment that Joe Biden and Kamala Harris have delivered to them every day at the grocery store and the gas pump since they took office," said Wilson. "The Senate needs a voice from Michigan to represent our working families against the war on the middle class that Biden has engaged in. By sending me to the U.S. Senate from Michigan, I will be the voice to end those tired, failed policies and fight for a positive agenda of freedom and prosperity."

Michigan Republicans are looking for a fresh face with courage and new ideas to move Michigan into the future. J.D. Wilson, a newcomer to running for office, has a compelling life story and a focus on critically important issues and values that contrasts with the failed career politicians of both parties.

An early leader in the technological revolution, Jeff (J.D.) Wilson was born in Southfield and raised in Lansing, Michigan. He graduated from Lansing Eastern high school in 1984. Afterwards, J.D. attended Michigan State University where his abilities to identify the future utilization of technology grew beyond traditional educational methods. In April of 1994, J.D. launched his IT career for Compuware Corporation, assigned to State of Michigan PROJECT MAIN where he participated in the modernization of Michigan's statewide accounting and procurement systems.

"I have the real world knowledge, technological experience and drive to fix this broken system that we need in government today," continued Wilson. "We must unleash our free markets, stop the sell out to China and bring American supply lines and jobs back to North America where they belong."

J.D. Wilson is a devoted family man who has successfully raised four wonderful boys into now young men with his loving wife Lynda.
